

U. S. Intent Is To Still Hold Edge

Build Up for Atomic, Military And Economic Unity is Aim

By John H. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—America's answer to Russia's new atomic weapon, administration officials made clear today, will be to speed up and reinforce the total military, political and economic unity of the west.

Responsible informants said the Truman administration was more concerned than ever:

1. To rebuild this country's rickety atomic partnership with Britain and Canada.
2. To hold the four-year American edge over Russia in bombs and any other atomic weapons.
3. To speed the creation of a unified defense strategy for American and western Europe under the North Atlantic treaty.

In both Washington and New York, top officials were at work on the strategy of getting ready for whatever the Russian development may involve.

In Close Contact

Secretary of State Acheson was in New York at the assembly of the United Nations in contact with Foreign Secretaries Bevin of Britain and Schuman of France.

President Truman and Acheson were believed to be in close touch.

Here—and around the world—repercussions from President Truman's dramatic announcement continued. A single exception was Russia herself. Not a word in confirmation or denial of the White House statement was forth coming.

Democratic leaders in congress expressed hope that the house would go along with the senate in approving a $1,000,000,000 first year arms aid program for European members of the Atlantic pact. The house voted only $580,495,000 for that purpose. The final amount apparently must be worked out by senators and house members in a conference.

Drive For Air Force
Senator Bridges (R-NH) predicted a new drive to build up the U. S. Air Force.

In London, the Evening News said U. S. atomic bombs may be stored in England, under American control. This was not officially confirmed. The paper also forecast a greater sharing of atomic secrets between the United States, Britain and Canada—partners in the original atomic fission project.

There was a rash of reports that Russia had staged more than one atomic explosion. These came from a variety of sources.

But officially, the only word on this point was that given yesterday by President Truman: There is evidence that in recent weeks an atomic explosion occurred in Russia.

And today highly placed informants said that the explosion which the president reported was the only atomic explosion which has occurred in Russia to date so far as the United States government knows.

The time and the place of the incident has been kept secret by the White House, state department and defense establishment for what officials describe as security reasons.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find no more at all.—Revelation 18:14.

Where Atomic Blasts Have Been

President Truman's announcement of an atomic blast somewhere in Russia brings the total of such explosions throughout the world to nine. The first was set off near Los Alamos, N. Mex., on July 16, 1945. The next two leveled Hiroshima and Nagasaki on Aug. 6 and 9, 1945. Two test bombs were set off at Bikini Atoll on June 30 and July 25, 1946, and three more at Eniwetok in April and May of 1948. Exact data and location of the latest atomic blast are still undisclosed, but evidence signifies Russia's possession of vital A-bomb data. (NEA Telephoto)

Claims to Have Bomb At Disposal

Soviets Assert Secret Long Ago Non-Existent

LONDON, Sunday, Sept. 25.—(P)—Russia said today she has the atom bomb at her disposal but she neither denied nor confirmed President Truman's statement that an atomic explosion had occurred on Soviet soil.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, in a broadcast dispatch recalled the statement by former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Nov. 6, 1947, that the atom bomb secret "was already long ago non-existent." Tass added: "This statement signified that the Soviet Union had already discovered the secret of the atomic weapon and that it had at its disposal this weapon."

Tass, official Soviet news agency, in a broadcast dispatch did not deny the President's statement. But Tass said it was "unpowered to declare" that large-scale building work in the Soviet Union "evokes the necessity of large-scale blasting work with the use of the latest technical means."

Tass added: "Insofar as this blasting work has taken place, and is taking place pretty frequently in various parts of the country, it is possible that this might draw attention beyond the confines of the Soviet Union."

The Tass statement said: "On Sept. 23, Truman, President of the U. S. A. announced that according to data of the government of the U. S. A., during one of the recent weeks there had occurred in the U. S. S. R. an atomic explosion. Simultaneously, a similar statement was made by the British and Canadian governments."

"Following on the publication of these statements in the American, British and Canadian press and also in the press of other countries, there appeared numerous utterances which spread alarm among broad social circles. x x x."

Rotary Talk on Ozarks School

M. Graham Clark, Jr., vice president of the School of the Ozarks, Hollister, will be the guest speaker at the Rotary Club Monday noon, at the Bothwell hotel. He will discuss the history, achievement and objectives of School of the Ozarks and its service to the boys and girls throughout the Ozark territory.

Mr. Clark was born in North Carolina but moved to Georgia when a child. He was graduated from Georgia Tech with a degree in engineering and after graduation accepted a position in the engineering department of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. He left this position to become assistant pastor and business manager of the North Avenue Presbyterian church in Atlanta, Ga., and later became vice president of an Atlanta insurance firm.

Early in the war Mr. Clark was called to active duty with the Georgia Guard and was released in 1944 to take charge of part of the security program of the B-29 Superforts. He was also a member of the Advisory committee of the Aircraft War Production Council. Active in civic affairs and youth work in Atlanta he served for more than a decade as a member of the executive committee and treasurer of the Atlanta Council of Churches.

Three Die From Flash Fire Burns

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 24.—(P)—Mrs. Betty Blevins, 21, died late today in a hospital here, the third victim of a flash fire which swept through a farm home near Miller, Mo., 30 miles west of here.

Mrs. Blevins suffered third degree burns over her entire body when she poured kerosene into a kitchen heating stove and an explosion resulted.

Her two children, Jerry, 2, and Kendall Blevins, 1, were burned to death. Mrs. Blevins carried out the body of the older boy. Miller firemen cooled the burning ruins and recovered the other body two hours later.

Mrs. Blevins is survived by her husband, Lewis, 23, who drove away just before the fire broke out. A neighbor notified him of the fire and restrained him from entering the blazing building for the younger child.

Parity Desire Of Farmers

Republicans for Less Rather Than More Control

By Ovid A. Martin
Associated Press Farm Reporter
SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 24.—(P)—National Republican leaders concluded today farmers want a program assuring them a stable income based on fair market prices and a minimum of direct government subsidies.

Further, they decided growers also want less, rather than more controls, greater farm participation in administration of programs, and reduced taxes.

These conclusions—put into words by Senator Mundt of South Dakota—were based on testimony of several score farmers and farm organization spokesmen presented at the GOP's two-day national farm conference closing today.

In short, the conference leaders—including party farm leaders in Congress—heard very little support for the controversial Brannan plan of the Truman administration. This plan has a dual goal of lower food prices for consumers and high returns to farmers. It would use government subsidies to keep farmers prosperous.

President Truman has indicated that he will press for election of a Congress next year committed to the Brannan plan.

Desire For Parity

In a speech summarizing the conference, Mundt said farmers' testimony showed general agreement on these points:

1. The farm problem is a price problem.
2. The farmer "desires and deserves parity prices in the market place" as contrasted with lower prices supplemented with direct government subsidies or checks.

(Parity is a legal standard for measuring farm prices, designed to be equally fair to producers and consumers.)

3. The farmer opposes any plan which makes agriculture the "scapegoat" for high prices or for economic maladjustments which restrict the under-privileged to an inadequate diet.

4. Farmers recognize that "parity prices must not be used to produce unmanageable surpluses."

5. Farmers strongly resist "all unnecessary invasions of their traditional freedoms."

Mundt said the farmer views will be used by the Republicans in drafting a farm program to offset the Brannan proposal.

Short Change Racket on a Frock Shop

Two Well Dressed Men Work it at The Mode 'O' Day

A Sedalia store manager reported to police a couple of short change artists tricked one of the employees out of a ten dollar bill early Saturday afternoon at Mode O' Day Frock Shop, 320 South Ohio avenue.

There is a possibility that when money was counted in downtown stores at the close of Saturday's business, that other cash registers showed a shortage of ten or twenty dollar bills, because these men were masters at their own trade.

Mrs. Virginia Fendley, manager of Mode O' Day Frock Shop, related that a couple of well dressed, mannerly men, one about 20 years old and the other between 35 and 40 years old, came into her store, shortly after 12:00 o'clock and bought one of the young employees in the store to sell them a pair of nylons.

The purchase price of the hose, including tax came to $1.02. The older of the two men was doing the buying, and presented a $20 bill to pay for the purchase.

Quick Changing of Money
The young clerk asked him if he had a dollar since she had no change for the $20 bill. He told her he didn't have a dollar, but presented her with a $10 bill and a quarter. Before she gave him change of 23 cents, four ones and a five, he said here, "I'll give you a dollar and you give me a 10 spot."

The clerk without getting his five spot and five ones, reached in the drawer and gave him a ten dollar bill. This left him with a ten spot, a five and five ones in his hand with that he said. The transaction was handled very quickly with some chit chat to make it a little more complicated for the young clerk.

During the transaction, the young man attracted Mrs. Fendley's attention by seeming interested in buying a dress. He told her he wanted a dress for his wife, but didn't buy it. When he left he said his sister who wore the same size as his wife would be in to try the garment on.

Charge of Murder After Plane Blast

Jeweler Accused In What Believed A Love Triangle

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 24.—(P)—A slim, wavy-haired Quebec jeweler, J. Albert Guay, was formally charged today with murdering his wife, who died with 22 others in an explosion-torn Quebec airways plane Sept. 9.

Pale and nervous, he was arraigned less than 24 hours after police announced they had proof explosives had been placed aboard the plane to get rid of a woman.

A key witness is Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 40, described as one of several women friends of Guay. She told police she delivered an express package to the aircraft here under the impression it contained "a statue."

Police inspector Rene Belec described the accused man yesterday as Mrs. Pitre's lover and implied a love triangle was the motive.

The charge made no mention of what police believe caused the plane's destruction—a home-made dynamite bomb. It simply accused Guay of "having Sept. 9 at Sault Au Cochon killed and assassinated Rita Morel (Guay) your wife."

Sault Au Cochon is the timbered mountainside northeast of Quebec where the mangled bodies of the 19 passengers—including three top executives of the Kennecott Copper Corporation—and four crew members were found in the plane wreckage.

Entered No Plea
The 32-year-old prisoner, who worked during the war in a munitions plant, was brought before Judge Alphonse Garon in the court of sessions. He did not enter a plea.

As the court clerk read the brief charge, Guay stared ahead blankly. The preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 4.

Mrs. Guay was 28. Six other women were among those who perished with her when an explosion in the baggage compartment swung the plane into the mountainside. Police said a $10,000 insurance policy on her life, payable to Guay, was taken out only a short time before she boarded the plane for Bate Comcau.

In addition Mrs. Pitre, who was dangerously ill in a hospital for a time yesterday after an overdose of sleeping pills she said Guay suggested she take, officers have been questioning a pretty 26-year old waitress. They did not identify the waitress by name.

Mrs. Pitre, an attractive brown-haired woman, is under police guard at her apartment.

End To Hunt
Her story ended a two-week hunt for a mystery woman who delivered a package, addressed to non-existing person in Baie Comeau, to the ill-fated plane just before it took off from this city. The package was a cardboard carton One report said it weighed 27 pounds.

Guay was picked up last night. He spent the night in a cell. Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion said "three search warrants have been issued and further charges are expected to be laid." He did not go into detail.

The outline of the case appeared to parallel a case in the Philippines.

A Filipino woman and five men have been accused of a love triangle murder by blowing up a Philippine air liner flying from Davao to Manila with a time bomb last May.

The woman's husband and 12 others aboard were killed. Authorities said June 7 the lovers would be arrested and their identity revealed "at the proper time."

May Test Law Before Court

Suits be Sought In Cole County on Redistricting

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24.—(P)—Missouri's new school district reorganization law appeared today to be headed for a court test.

Two suits are being sought in Cole county circuit court, attacking the constitutionality of the 1948 law.

Petitions asking Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair to throw out two recent reorganization elections are in the circuit clerk's office. They were filed by Cole County's Prosecuting Attorney, James T. Riley, or information supplied by a group of residents in two school districts enlarged last month.

Legally, however, the cases are not formally filed with the court until Judge Blair agrees to hear them. He was out of town today.

Two Districts Under Fire
The two new districts under fire are situated in the southern and southwestern parts of Cole county. One takes in a small area of Miller county and the other incorporates several small Moniteau county districts.

The opponents to the reorganization contend:

1. The new law is unconstitutional because it does not set out the exact method by which the reorganization election shall be brought to the attention of all the voters involved.
2. The elections were held with notice being given in Cole county but not in the adjoining counties in which some small districts would be involved.

Since the law went into effect a number of counties have set up reorganization programs and 844 old districts have been consolidated into 84 new ones. Many other plans have been rejected by the voters.

Should Judge Blair accept the case and later declare the new law unconstitutional it undoubtedly would go to the supreme court for a final test of its constitutionality.

Legislative sponsors of the new law said it would cut down the large number—8,385—of Missouri school districts and would replace them with larger more efficient and economical districts.

Slow Trip Out For Thomas

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(P)—The U. S. air force said today it might try to fly injured Lowell Thomas out of a remote Himalayan village—but word from the commentator's son indicated planes were forbidden there.

The son, in a message received today at Thomas' office here, said he hoped to start moving his father by sedan chair Monday on a 16-day trek out of the far eastern mountain wilderness.

The 37-year-old radio commentator and author was reported injured when thrown from a horse while in a mountain pass on his way back from Tibet to India.

The air force in Washington said it told its air rescue center at Dharam, Saudi Arabia, to stand by.

The message said "hip okay. High bone injury uncertain without x-ray."

This was the first explanation of Thomas' specific injuries.

Chest Drive In Sedalia to Start Oct. 10

Seven Agencies Embodied in the Coming Campaign

Every city or community should feel a responsibility for its welfare, the well being and the advancement of its own citizens, it is declared as time for the Community Chest Drive nears. That is the reason that in the month of October communities all over the United States make to raise funds to support its own agencies.

Every person who lives in a community is a part of it and should help to support the agencies that take care of the needs in their home towns.

It may never be necessary to call upon one of the agencies for help yet every citizen in the town is benefited by what these agencies are doing.

Train For Citizenship
The Boy and Girl Scout organizations are training for future citizenship and are giving boys and girls in the community healthful recreation. The two day nurseries are caring for small children while their mothers are employed. The Teen Town clubs provide supervised entertainment for the youths and thereby decreasing the cases in juvenile delinquency. The Salvation Army fulfills the great need in the community of feeding the hungry bodies and souls of men who could be reached in no other way, it is pointed out.

There are seven agencies caring for the needs and welfare in our community throughout the year and once a year the drive is made for their support. The Community Chest Drive starts October 10, and the volunteer workers on the drive ask the whole hearted support of every citizen of the town, a contribution to carry on the work of these agencies.

Capt. Minor To Be Patrol Major

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24.—(P)—Capt. G. R. Minor of Macon was appointed today to the new rank of major of the state highway patrol.

Col. David E. Harrison, patrol superintendent, said Minor would become his first administrative assistant Oct. 14, the day when a new law establishing the rank of major becomes effective. Minor will be stationed at general headquarters here and will be acting superintendent when Harrison is absent.

On Oct. 14, too, the patrol's uniformed ranks will be increased from 229 to 260. Some 300 applicants for the 31 jobs took examinations here earlier this month. Colonel Harrison has not announced the names of the successful candidates yet.

Captain Minor is one of the original members of Missouri's state police force. He became a trooper back in 1931 when the patrol was first organized.

Since then he has served in Macon, North Kansas City, Cameron, Marshall and Hannibal. He was promoted to Sergeant in Marshall, lieutenant in Hannibal and became a captain in Macon in 1947. For the past 31 months he has headed troop headquarters in Macon. Col. Harrison did not announce Minor's successor there.

Minor, 47, is married and has two grown children.

It won't be difficult to remember his rank and name: Major Minor.

Issues On Strikes To Fore

Efforts to be Made on Settlements and To Prevent A Ford Strike

By The Associated Press

Crucial decisions affecting America's postwar economy may be made this week.

Strikes involving 1,000,000 steelworkers and 115,000 Ford motor company employees are set for this week. The nation will learn whether the strike of 480,000 coal miners can be settled quickly or will drag on with steadily spreading idleness.

More than 600,000 workers already are idle in strikes involving a dozen industries. A steel strike would boost this number to above 1,600,000, the highest level in the postwar period.

Negotiations between the CIO United Steelworkers union and the steel industry were in recess over the weekend. They will be resumed Monday. Bargaining talks were opened Friday, but they were exploratory with neither side showing its hand.

The thrice-postponed steel strike is now set for 12:01 a. m. Saturday, Oct. 1. The main issue is whether the workers should share the cost.

No Break Thus Far
The nationwide coal strike went through its first week with no sign of a break. But John L. Lewis is slated to resume contract talks with the operators Sept. 29. Some indication of what may happen to the coal strike may become known then.

So far the coal strike has caused the layoff of 31,000 coal carrying railroad workers but hasn't hit industry generally. Stockpiles were generally ample when the miners quit work Monday. But if the strike stretches out into a long mine shutdown, industry will suffer a crippling blow.

The miners quit work in protest against refusal of the southern operators to continue royalty payments to the miners' welfare fund. The southern operators said they refused to make the royalty payments "until a new contract is signed. The walkout also was over failure of efforts to reach a new contract."

Lewis says the men won't work until they get a new contract. Some of the operators say they won't agree to wage boosts.

Cards Hold Margin In League Race

By Trembling a 3-2 Victory Over Chicago Cubs

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Fireman Ted Wilks squelched a ninth-inning Chicago rally which had produced two runs and put the potential tying and winning runs on base, to give the league-leading St. Louis Cards a trembling 3-2 triumph over the last place Cubs tonight.

The victory enabled the Redbirds to preserve their half-game margin over the Dodgers, who whipped the Philadelphia Phils, 8-1, in Brooklyn.

Here is the pennant race at a glance:
St. Louis 94 54 .635 — 6
Brooklyn 94 55 .631 1/2 5
Wilks, making his 56th relief appearance for the Redbirds, relieved starter Gerald Staley with runners on first and second and only one out. Four singles by Frank Baumholtz, Hal Jeffcoat, Forrest Burgess and Bill Serena had furnished the first two runs of the game for the Cubs, and sent the young righthander to the showers.

Tension Banishes
Wilks kept the runners going to their bases as he held Herman Reich to a long hoist to Chuck Diering in center for the second out. The suddenly perspiring crowd of 22,077 uttered a sigh of relief when Roy Smalley swung and missed a fast ball for the third strike to end the game.

The defeat was the Cubs' 90th of the campaign which tied them with last year's sorry crew as the losingest club in Chicago history. No windy city outfit ever dropped more than 90 games in one year.

The Cards, with six more games left to play, engage the Cubs here again tomorrow afternoon. Harry (18-10) Brecheen, who has beaten the Bruins three straight times, is slated to oppose Johnny (11-10) Schmitz in a southpaw duel. Schmitz owns a 2-2 record against the Cards this season.

Bat Wielders
Stan Musial and Al (Red) Schoendienst were the big bat wielders for the Cardinals. Between them they collected five of their team's nine hits off right-hander Bob Rush, who went down in his 18th defeat, the most of any pitcher in the majors.

Musial poled a pair of two-baggers against the right field screen, drove in one run and scored another. Schoendienst also batted in one and scored once, on three singles. The sure-handed redhead fielded brilliantly at second base. He handled eight chances flawlessly, and figured in two double plays.

The Cards had the makings of a big first inning, but misguided base-running by Musial limited them to only one run when they might have made at least three. After Schoendienst and Marty Marion had greeted Rush with successive singles, Musial lashed a high drive against the top of the right field screen. Schoendienst scored easily, but Marion stopped at third. When Musial, running with his head down, overran second, a rundown ensued and when it was over, both Stan and Marty were tagged out.

Scored in 4th and 7th
Ron Northey followed Musial's second double in the fourth, with a single to send his teammate over the plate with the Cards' second run. St. Louis counted again in the seventh when Schoendienst out-legged an infield single to bring in Joe Garagiola. The Card catcher had doubled and advanced to third on an error.

In the meantime Staley was mowing down the Cubs with monotonous regularity. He retired the first nine men to face him, and not until Bob Ramazzotti singled in the fourth, did Chicago get its first hit. The Cubs waited until the seventh to make their second safety. They put together two hits in the eighth but failed to score.

Open Season In Wrestling Here, Oct. 5

Three Matches Will Be Staged Every Wednesday Night

Another big wrestling season is being planned by the American Legion for Sedalia's Armory. And from reports issued by Pearl Christy, the Legion's matchmaker, more new talent than ever before will appear in the local ring.
"This is going to be a banner year for wrestling," Christy remarked. "We will bring more top names to this city in two months than appeared here in a full season in the past."

Christy is already contracting heavyweights for the opening show, scheduled for the Armory on Wednesday night, Oct. 5.

Leading Heavyweights
Among the leading heavyweights being offered contracts are World Champion Orville Brown, Wild Bill Longson, Ray Eckert, Bobby Bruns, Enrique Torres, Mike Sharp, Tarzan Kowalski and many more.

Bruns, incidentally, has just returned from a triumphant tour of the Union of South Africa. Bobby has been on tour in that country since last May. He is in the peak of condition and can be expected to be right in the thick of title contention when the opening bell sounds.

Longson, long a claimant for world honors, will definitely make his first appearance in the Armory in the immediate future.

No Selections as Yet
Christy did not wish to make any selections at this early date. "More and more big-name wrestlers are heading into the Middle-west every day, and I want to wait until the last possible moment before making the selections for the opening card on Oct. 5."

Of interest to local mat fans is the fact that Torres, the handsome Mexican from Mexico City, is riding the crest of a 15-match victory streak. When he made his debut in Kansas City two weeks ago he won the immediate plaudits of the thousands of fans on hand.

It is now being mentioned in top mat circles that Torres is one of the men to beat in the heavy-weight ranks.

Three Matches
Christy announced that three matches will be staged on each card during the 1949-50 season. The feature match will go the best two out of three falls to a 90-minute time limit, the semi-final is also listed as two matches of three falls event with a 45-minute time limit. The special match will be a 1-fall affair, with a 30-minute time barrier.
All matches will start at 8:30. The matchmaker will announce the contestants for the opening program later this week.

36 Cars to Race For $3000 Purse

KANISAS CITY, Sept. 24.—(Special)—The midget auto racing season at Olympic stadium reaches its climax Sunday afternoon with the featuring of the 100-lap Mid-Western Classic. Time trials begin at 4 p.m.
The management, allowed six guest drivers over the thirty top ranking pilots in the season's point standing bracket, is attempting to secure such nationally-known drivers as Johnnie Parsons, of Burbank, Calif., runner-up to Bill Holland in the Indianapolis Speedway Classic and Ralph Pratt, of Detroit. Pratt, a former Kansas Citian, was high AAA driver in the Michigan-Ohio area last year.

A field of 36 cars is slated to compete for the $3000 purse over a span of 175 laps of racing. Buz Barton, of Chickasha, Ok., and chauffeur of the Gibson No. 9 Offenshauer, will again be a threat for the 100-lap championship. He was runnerup to Rex Easton, guest driver from Springfield, Ill., who walked off with the 75-lap championship and will be expected back this Sunday.
Also Frank Burany, of Milwaukee, runnerup to the late George Binnie in the 100-lap 1948 Mid-Western championship, is due back. Races start at 5 o'clock.

American League Race Runs Close

Yankees Lead Over Red Sox By A Game

By Jack Hand
BOSTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Ellis Kinder, a 35-year-old Tennessee "boy" with an acrobatic curve, halved the New York Yankees lead today with a six-hit, 3-0 triumph that boosted the steaming Boston Red Sox within one game of first place in the American league.

Victory number 23, the last 13 in succession, enabled Kinder to give the Red Sox the jump in this vital series that probably will decide the pennant.

Here's the situation, going into tomorrow's final game at Fenway park where Boston has won its last 20 starts.

W L GB TP
New York 93 54 7
Boston 92 55 1
It will be Mel Parnell, stylish left hander with a 24-7 record for Boston in the final against Allie Reynolds (17-5) for the desperate Yanks.

Kinder's Brilliant Performance.
Beaten three times in their last four starts, the Yanks rolled over and played dead before Kinder's brilliant performance. Ellie never allowed more than one hit an inning, struck out five and walked only four. Only one of the hits was an extra baser and that was by Phil Rizzuto, who led off the eighth with a double but was left cold and dry.

It was the second shutout loss for the Yanks who have never been out of first place all season. Another Red Sox win tomorrow would send the teams back to the Yankee stadium Monday tied for first.

Ed Lopat, first of 23 enemy lefties to go the route at Fenway all season, was nicked for two runs in the second and Ted Williams' 425-foot homer, his 42nd in the third.

That was all but it was more than enough.

Dodgers Win Over Phils 8-1

BROOKLYN, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Big Don Newcombe, working with only two days rest, pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a brilliant 8-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phils tonight. Newcombe, presented with an automobile before the game, allowed only four hits and fanned nine in posting his 16th victory of the season.

The victory kept the Dodgers hot on the heels of the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.
Newcombe blanked the Phils until the ninth inning when with two out Andy Seminick belted a home run. Seminick previously had struck out twice. Seminick's hit was the first off Newcombe since the third inning.

The Dodgers supported Newcombe's classy pitching with a 12-hit attack against five Philadelphia pitchers that included home runs by Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo.

Local Golf Tourney Scheduled for Oct. 2

An Amateur Handicap Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Sedalia Athletic Association, beginning at 9:00 o'clock, Sunday morning, October 2, will be held at the Elm Hill golf course, located on south highway 65.
Since this tourney is strictly limited to amateurs, many Sedalia and out of town golfers are expected to enter. According to Jack Cunningham, president of the Sedalia Athletic Association, a number of entries have already been received, and he said he anticipated on 100 or more entries before the contest started.
The entry fee, including green fees is two dollars, and for each fee entered, the sponsor will receive a dollar, which will go toward furthering sports activities in Sedalia.
Golfers desiring to enter the tourney should send their entry fees to E. C. Martin, 410 Ohio avenue.

Sport Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON
The season grows near when Wrestling will become one of the headline sports in Sedalia. The Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, announced Saturday wrestling will resume for the 1949-50 season on Wednesday night October 5 at the Missouri National Guard Armory, Ninth street and Ohio avenue.
Pearl Christy, who took over promotion of the matches late in the season last spring, will handle the match-making and promotion this season. Christy was in town Friday afternoon and discussed the seasonal plans with members of the Legion committee in charge of that activity.
The Legion after more than twenty years of using the old all-wood ring has purchased new frame work for the ring of an all-steel construction. The platform which has been rebuilt from time to time will be used on the new structure. The posts are round steel piping, the frame work is of two inch and two and a half inch piping and bolted together giving one of the most solid rings ever built for wrestling or boxing.
The construction is such that Walter Soris a wrestler who was here with Christy said, "I've never seen a finer built ring. It will certainly add to the action as many of the wrestlers feared the old ring while wrestling because of the weakened frame work condition. We won't be afraid of falling through it when the going gets rough."
The new frame work, wrestling mat, canvass and ropes were obtained at a cost of several hundred dollars.
Local fans, according to Christy, are in for a full season of good mat this year. He has contracted many of the top wrestlers to come to this territory along with several women wrestlers who will be in Sedalia the latter part of October.

IF requests to the Democrat-Capital sports desk for World Series is any indication, Sportsman Park, St. Louis will not have enough room for the people out-state much less St. Louisians should the Cardinals win the pennant. The past several days many requests have been made as to "where can I get tickets?" "How can I get tickets?" and "do you have any pull to get tickets?"
The only answer, is of the Cards win then you can write to the St. Louis Cardinals and make your request, that is when both the first and second question with the exception, "inlose your check or money order for tickets," and the third question is definitely "NO PULL, lucky if I can get myself a ticket."
But I am wondering if Ma Leach down in Texas is going to make the Series. I doubt it but I know of no one who would rather see her sitting in a front row box at the St. Louis games, than myself.

THE Smith-Cotton Tigers did it again. Beat Kemper last Friday night, but the hill is still steep and the boys have a long road to pull before the season is over. I was rather amused recently in reading a paper published in a city which has a high school in the Central Missouri Conference and who they say the favorite teams are.

They mentioned Hannibal, Mexico Military Academy and Jefferson City. I wonder if they overlooked the Smith-Cotton Tigers on purpose. We think they have a fair chance of finishing in a top position.

Tulane Rolls to 28-14 Victory Over Alabama

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Tulane's powerful Greenies rolled to a 28-14 win over a less experienced Alabama eleven today in an impressive football debut.
With All-American candidate Eddie Price and big Bill Svoboda setting the pace, Tulane racked up four touchdowns with its strong running attack.

Missouri Misplaced Kick to Lose

Underdogs Nearly Upset Buckeyes In Wild - Wooly Game

By Fritz Howell
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Ohio State launched its 1949 grid season today by defeating Missouri's alert and powerful Tigers 35 to 24 in as wild and wooly an opener as the big Buckeye stadium ever has witnessed.

The two teams treated 66,510 fans, biggest opening crowd in Ohio-Missouri series, to a 10-touchdown parade, and a misplaced kick for an extra point by Missouri's John Glorioso, the Tigers' outstanding player, provided the difference.

Jimmy Hague, Buckeye end who came off the hospital list to play the entire game, booted five in a row for the victors.

Three times the aroused Tigers, who haven't beaten the Bucks in nine straight contests, forced Ohio to come from behind as they scored touchdowns in each of the first three periods.

Behind by a point with three seconds to go, Missouri still had a chance to win, but Glorioso's place kick from the 31-yard line fell short, taking the Tiger hopes with it.

Missouri Out-played Ohio
The "Show-me" boys, held to 66 yards on the ground and 25 through the air a year ago when Ohio won 21 to 7, rolled through the big Buckeye forward wall for 250 yards rushing and took to the air for 257 more today. Against Missouri's 507-yard gain, Ohio had 430.

Missouri had 25 first downs to Ohio's 15. The Tigers dominated the first period, but three fumbles upset their chances. Quarterback Phil Klein tossed to end Gene Ackerman for the visitors' only counter—a 40-yard affair.

Ohio knotted the count early in the second. Hamilton rolled 21 yards to the two, with fullback Curly Morrison ploughing over from there. Missouri bounced back with six points that sent them 74 yards to a touchdown by halfback Dick Braznell.

Deadlocked Score
Then Ohio deadlocked the count again with an eight-play, 64-yard drive topped by Jerry Krall's 8-yard touchdown jaunt around end.

In the third period, Missouri needed 11 plays to go 39 yards for the first of Klein's three consecutive "sneak play" touchdowns. The Buckeyes showed their greatness in turning 10 plays and a "time" penalty into a 70-yard touchdown drive. Krall pitched eight yards to end Jim Hague for the counter, again knotting the count.

Quarterback Pandel Savic hit Hamilton with a 34-yard touchdown pass soon thereafter, and added a final touchdown with a six-play, 75-yard march and a 25-yard toss, Savic to Hamilton.

Klein's next two touchdowns, kept the Tigers in the ball game, but on the first of these, Glorioso recorded his one and only point after touchdown miss. That was really the ball game.

Boy vs Polio: 'Thank God For That Iron Lung...'

A Father Tells What It's Like to Watch His Son Fight Against Paralysis

By Lloyd W. Sveen
Written for NEA Service
FARGO, N. D.—(NEA)—"Get the respirator!"

The doctor darts back to the hospital room where my four-year-old son, Bradley Joe, stricken with polio, writhes in an oxygen tent.

The iron lung is wheeled in as doctors and nurses carry Brad from his bed.

His face is grey. There is no perceptible breathing.

My wife, Dorothy, stands beside me, hands clenched. 'Hurry, hurry, hurry!'

ator cover shut. Doctors fit the collar around Brad's little neck. All you can see is the curly head with the ashen face so motionless.

The electric cord is plugged in. The rhythmic huff and clank of the bellows on the respirator begins.

Fear seethes inside you, until you are breathing hard and fast, trying to help your boy's lungs get life-saving oxygen he needs so terribly fast.

You are beseeching God incoherently, trying to sustain your wife at the same time.

A doctor comes over. "I think we are winning."

You look at the little head. A nurse holds an oxygen mask above Brad's colorless lips.

Later—agonizingly later—the grey little face gets a pale pink. Then slowly the cheeks are the healthy tan you knew so well. Brad opens his eyes, feels oxygen tickling his face.

"You dummy. You dummy, take the dumb thing off," he says.

Your eyes are hot, moist.

The doctor says to Brad: "Good boy," then turns to you. "He's out of immediate danger, thanks to the respirator."

The respirator—the iron lung which first struck terror in your heart, becomes a close friend because it is breathing for your boy. Your boy who has bulbar polio...

You take up your vigil outside the door, and thank God for that iron lung, and the doctors and nurses who are watching Brad as if he were their own.

You remember how hopeless it seemed—until the Fargo chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis got on the job.

You remember the telephone call you got that day from the chapter: "There are two things we don't want you to worry about. One is the medical care, it is as good here as it is anywhere. The other is money. We will pay for everything where the cost would force you to lower your ordinary living standards."

One terrible night your son begins to have trouble swallowing. He suddenly is out of step with the respirator. Color drains from his face.

Doctors work feverishly, deftly. The room with the iron lung blurs. A doctor finally says, "He's snapped out of it."

"Are there nothing but crises with polio?" you ask brokenly.

He said wearily: "Fighting polio is like climbing into a boxing ring blindfolded against a heavyweight champ. He lands a blow. You try to keep a step ahead of him but you don't know where he's going to punch next."

The iron lung huffs on. Brad lives by intravenous feedings until the wonderful day comes when again he can swallow normally. Penicillin shots are administered daily—not to fight the polio virus, for there is no known medicine which can conquer it—but to ward off pneumonia.

"This must be costing a lot of money," I said one day to the hospital administrator.

"There is no charge for the iron lung," he said. "The respirators in Fargo were purchased by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organizations and they are free."

Bulbar polio only rarely is paralyzing to the limbs, but Brad sustained that also. Hot pack treatments began.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
An economy house with a luxury plan, this design No. 746 by Walter T. Anicka, architect, 617 Forest street, Ann Arbor, Mich., covers only 1,018 square feet with its two porches. It is planned to be built with a basement which provides space for a recreation room, heating plant and laundry room. Its low roof lines contribute to its saving in construction costs and add to its appearance. The porch adjoining the combined living room-dining room is screened from street or neighboring property by a planting box and trellis. The architect suggests an exterior of flush vertical siding and a roof of asphalt shingles for minimum building and maintenance costs.

machines?" I asked a nurse. "The National Foundation," came the oft-heard answer.

It was the first of the month. The bills piled up. Hospital's $416, for 16 days. Oxygen—$155, the private room needed because a respirator takes up so much space, $136, and other charges.

Special nurses every hour—$550. They earned every cent of it, with constant devotion and vigilance to the patient. The doctor's bill isn't in yet, but he too, deserves a life and death fee.

That bill, more than $1000, is only for the first 16 days and it's only one case of polio. In this, the worst epidemic year in the United States, with 40,000 cases anticipated for the year, is it any wonder the National Foundation's funds are exhausted?

What lies ahead for my son? Long days of recuperation, of hot special nursing. How many can packs and treatment including pay such bills without lowering their standard of living?

Anyone wonder why the National Foundation has been forced reluctantly, to come with a special appeal for funds? Anyone doubt that the money is well spent?

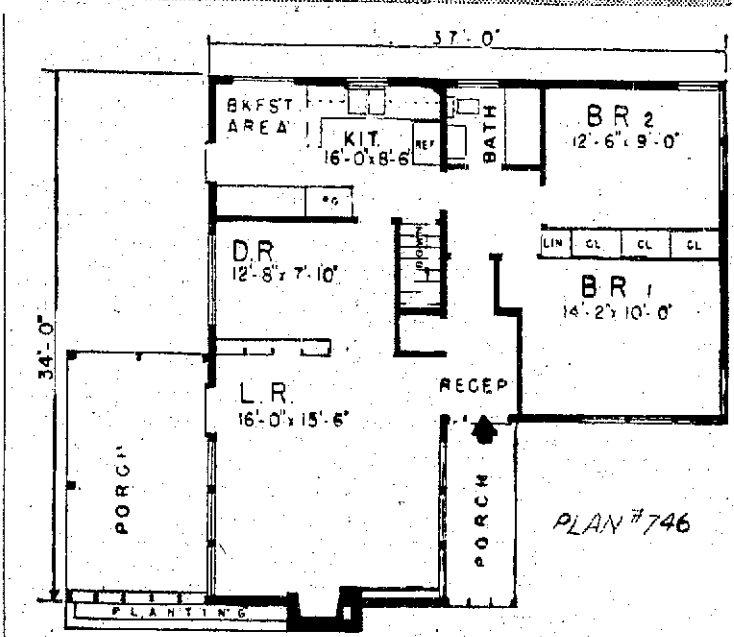

I can tell you, straight from my heart that it is.

HOLDUP IN HYDE PARK—A wedding party, coaching in Hyde Park, London, is held up at pistol point by a horseman who took this means of tendering his gift to the bride.

IT ISN'T A HORN—Fourteen-year-old Albert Dodig had the right to blow his horn—oops, we mean cucumber—after exhibiting the 26-inch vegetable he grew in his back yard. The Cleveland, O., youngster, veteran of three years of hoeing, goes in for the king size cucumber.

Progress on The Swimming Pools

W. R. Blackwell, resident engineer for Reeves and Schupp Engineering Company, gave the following weekly progress report on the construction of the swimming pools at Liberty and Hubbard Parks.

At Liberty Park, the wading pool is finished and over half of the floor is completed in the bathhouse. The overhead light standards around the pool are installed. Rough grading work was completed Saturday.

Work remaining at Liberty Park is the completion of sidewalks around the wading pool, slubbing and painting work, and the erection of a fence around the pool.

At Hubbard Park, all sidewalks are finished around the pool. About half the floor is completed in the bathhouse. All overhead light standards are up. All that remains to be done at Hubbard is stringing the fence, painting and plumbing work inside the bathhouse.

Several New Building Permits

Building permits were issued by Louis W. Dickman, city building and electrical inspector, whose office is in the city hall, to the following:

Harold Dean, to construct a seven room brick house, with bath, part basement and garage at 1403 West Broadway.

Epworth Methodist church, where a seven room parsonage, attached garage next to the church, 1116 East Broadway, will be constructed. The outside construction will consist mostly of bricks. Harold Dean has the building contract.

W. W. Cecil, 1405 South Missouri avenue, to build a private garage at his residence.

Remodeling permits were issued to Paul Nichols, 1020 East Thirteenth street, to add a room to his residence, and to Lawrence Mergen, 1920 South Missouri, to add a room and bath to his residence.

Dismiss Bogus Check Charge
 Complainant is Criticized at A Hearing Held
 Proceedings back-fired in Magistrate court over a bogus check hearing, Friday afternoon, when the accused was dismissed of the charge, and the accuser was severely criticized by Magistrate William M. Ilgenfritz and Prosecuting Attorney William F. Brown.
 A young man, who is married and has two children to support, formerly of Sedalia, now a resident of Cooper county, was summoned to Magistrate court to answer a charge of uttering a bogus check, June 21, 1949 to procure groceries and food stuff in the amount of $36.13.
 After explaining to the young man that he could either plead not guilty, guilty or he could have a bond set for a later date of hearing, the prosecutor asked him how he wanted to plead the case, and the defendant replied, guilty.
 Then the prosecuting attorney asked the young man to tell him the story of what happened.
 He told the prosecutor that he and his family moved to Sedalia last spring, and soon afterwards he lost his job. He related that being new in Sedalia, he could not establish a credit rating, and that he and his family were in need of food, so he went to a certain grocery store in Sedalia to seek credit. He said that this particular grocerman would not let him have credit, but offered to give him groceries on one condition, that if he would sign a blank check. In desperate need of groceries, that is what he did.
 After hearing his story, the prosecutor said, "we can't let him plead guilty to the charge," and Magistrate W. M. Ilgenfritz said, "certainly not," and told the deputy sheriff to bring in the grocerman.
 The grocerman had first come to the prosecuting attorney's office, Mr. Brown stated, and told the prosecutor that the young man bought the groceries, gave him a bogus check and skipped town. But after he was questioned in Magistrate court, Friday afternoon, the grocerman admitted the signature was procured on a blank check prior to any purchase of groceries.
 Prosecuting Attorney Brown ended up the case by telling the grocerman, "you or nobody else is going to beat somebody over the head and make them sign a blank check and make my office the goat for this sort of thing."

Two Injured As Cars Collide
 Two persons were injured, but not seriously, in an accident at Wilkerson street and Prospect avenue about 1:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Doris E. Miles, 18, Clinton, Mo., was arrested by the police on a charge of careless driving and he posted a $25 bond to appear in police court Monday morning.
 Mr. and Mrs. Silas S. Hall, route 1, LaMonte, were treated at the Bothwell hospital by Dr. C. B. Trader and released. Mrs. Hall was taken to the hospital in the Ewing ambulance.
 Mr. Hall, 56, was driving a 1932 Dodge sedan and headed east on Wilkerson and Miles was going north on Prospect avenue when the collision occurred. The front of the Oldsmobile was badly damaged, while the Dodge which was struck in the side was knocked around, struck the curb on the northeast corner. As the car struck the curb the two rear wheels were demolished.
 With Miles, a student at Central Business College, were Gtonis Duarte, Carlos Garza, Mike Brooks and Gilberto Zavos J., also students at the school.

Two Given Sentences To The County Jail
 Two men pleaded guilty to charges against them in Magistrate court, Friday, and were committed to the Pettis county jail for a period of thirty days. Harold Stempley, Sedalia, pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.
 Eddie Sprinkles, Pettis county, pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support of children.

 Mrs. Pete Cairns, 1102 East Broadway, entertained a few small friends Saturday afternoon, September 10, at Washington park in honor of the sixth birthday anniversary of her son, Jimmy, which was September 9.
 The afternoon was spent in playing games after which refreshments of ice cream and angel food cake iced in white and decorated in pink and lime green, were served on pastel colored plates.
 As Jimmy lighted the six candles on his cake the guests sang: "Happy Birthday." They were Sandra Moon, Eunice and Susie Standard, Deloris Guinn, Kitty Sue Cairns, Perry Forberg, Butch Harrison, Larry Moore, Dicky Craig and Johnny Cairns.
 Plastic cups in pastel shades filled with candy were given as favors.
 Mrs. Cairns was assisted by Mrs. Orville Moon.
 Jimmie received many nice gifts.

Leadership In Music Is Held By United States

By Adelaide Kerr
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 24 —(P)—“The United States leads the world in music. Europe might catch up with us in 20 years if there is no war, but it will never again take the leadership.”

The speaker was Sigmund Romberg, Hungarian-born composer of such Broadway musical hits as Blossom Time, The Student Prince and the desert song and veteran of 40 years' work in American music. He has been an American citizen since 1917.

In the last seven years he has conducted his concert orchestra in 300 American cities and thus has had a first hand look at musical activities in virtually every state.

“Europe used to call America a land of dollar chasers and say we had no real interest or foundation in the arts,” Romberg went on. “But it is the American dollar that put the solid floor under music in America. In this country music is a billion dollar business. The big money that musicians can make here from radio, recordings, concerts and other sources makes this country the mecca of every artist.”

“Today, with its symphony orchestras, opera companies, movies and radio the United States lays more good music before a higher percentage of people than any other country in the world.”

The composer-conductor swiftly enumerated his reasons.

Symphony Groups
“Today there are about 150 orchestras of symphony rank in the United States. Thirty of these are of first caliber. The Boston symphony, the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia orchestra are world famous and can hold their own with the symphony orchestras of London, Paris and Vienna. Many of our symphony orchestras give summer concerts, at which millions can hear the best music at popular prices.”

“There are 200,000 amateur orchestras in high schools and universities. (This does not include their bands.) These orchestras play semi-classical music. They also play some classical music arranged in a way that is not too hard for them. These youngsters give their own time to play and every fiddler and tooter among them is a potential patron of the best music when he grows up.”

“I do not mean that all of America is symphony conscious. Jack Benny still gets a much higher listener rating than the best radio symphony performance. But the taste of the masses and the number of lovers of good music among them are steadily rising.

Music For Musical Shows
“Also, the United States produces more music of the type heard in the best musical shows and motion pictures than any other country in the world. It also has its composers of symphony, choral and opera music. And they don't have to starve here either. Idealism is nice and something that should be honored. But practical idealism is good too. It enables musicians in America to eat three meals a day and may send the children to college.”

Romberg capped his discussion with a final point.

“Before World War II a musician who wanted a name had to pass the critics of Vienna and Paris. Today he must pass the critics in (New York) Carnegie Hall and Town Hall. The reason, of course, is the financial gain an artist can make here. Nowhere else in the world can a singer sing in 50 different cities, each having halls accommodating four thousand or more.”

Romberg himself seems to symbolize the mixture of artistry and good business he attributes to the American musical world. His Ruddy face, flanked by two smooth wings of grey hair, and tailored grey suit reflect the successful American business man.

The story of his life work in music is told in his biography “Deep In My Heart” by Elliott Arnold which will be published Sept. 30. Romberg came to New York in his early twenties with $300 in his pocket and landed a job as pianist with a Hungarian restaurant. He moved steadily forward to a better restaurant, leadership of his own orchestra and finally, to the writing of hit shows. His songs were known and sung around the world. He calls his type of musical composition “middle brow.”

No Charge In Mercy Shooting

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 24—(P)—A girl who discovered her policeman-father had an inoperable cancer shot and fatally wounded him late Friday in Stamford hospital.

“She didn't want him to suffer,” Police Chief John E. Brennan said in describing the shooting of Sgt. Carl Paight, by his 20-year-old daughter, Carol.

Paight died seven hours after his daughter fired a slug through his head with his own service revolver. Carol collapsed in a fit of hysteria after the shooting and was put to bed in hospital after receiving sedatives. A police guard was placed at her bed.

A hospital spokesman said that Carol, a student at the University of New Hampshire, was with her mother when Dr. William H. Smith, the operating surgeon, reported Sgt. Paight had an inoperable cancer.

He said that the girl became hysterical and begged that her father not be told. When she was quieted, Carol left the hospital with her mother and some friends.

Chief Brennan said that she returned to the hospital several hours later and went to her father's room where she shot him through the head with his service revolver which she brought from their home.

Brennan said no charge has yet been lodged against the girl.

Army Veteran Terrorized 140

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(P)—An army veteran terrorized 140 persons in a veterans administration office Friday, emphasizing with two guns his demands to be treated for tuberculosis.

William Shimkus, 31, held a woman VA worker imprisoned in a chair for half an hour while Police Sgt. John O'Connor pleaded with him to drop his guns.

Shimkus finally yielded and released the woman, Josephine Neibauer, 45. She promptly fainted.

Shimkus entered Miss Neibauer's office, brandished the revolvers and demanded that he be treated. Before she could answer, he ran around to the back of her chair and threw his arms around her neck in a choking position. He still held the guns.

He said VA officials told him X-ray photographs of his lungs showed that he did not have the disease. But he said he was convinced he was ill after noticing on his discharge papers that a small black spot had been noted on his left lung at the time of his discharge.

After O'Connor told the veteran he would be given treatment if he would drop the guns, Shimkus complied.

He was seized and taken to the county psychiatric hospital.

Lamar, Birthplace of President Harry S. Truman, Had Plenty Troubles in Early Days; Fame is Widespread

A bold black and white sign before the home in Lamar where President Harry S. Truman was born is one of the landmarks of the city. The nation's chief executive is Lamar's most famous "native son." (Associated Press Photo)

(Editor's Note — This is another of the series, "Know Your Missouri Cities." It was written by Ruth Heath, Associated Press correspondent in Lamar.)

LAMAR, Mo., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Some day someone may write a song about Lamar.

It might well contain the line: "The sons of Lamar have carried her name afar."

One of the sons, born in 1884, became president, one born the following year became a famed astronomer and another, born in 1886 became an admiral.

Harry S. Truman was born here in a little white cottage.

Legend has it that mule trader John Truman tacked a mule shoe over the door on that day and predicted great things for his son. So it was that Lamar joined West Branch, Iowa, and Hardin county, Kentucky, as the birthplace of presidents.

Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory for many years, was born in nearby Nashville in 1885, but Lamar claims him as a home town boy. Rear Admiral Freeland A. Daubin commanded the submarines of the Atlantic fleet during World War II.

These have carried the city's name to far places. So have several others. Vice Admiral Charles A. Lockwood and Rear Admiral Thomas S. Combs. When Admiral Richard Byrd went to the Antarctic one of his ships was named the Wyatt Earp in honor of the widely known frontier sheriff and Lamar's first constable.

Comes Into Importance

For years the house where President Truman was born was just another cottage. John Truman bought it in 1882 for $685. But with Truman stepping into the presidency the house on the 80x160 foot lot four blocks from the square became important.

It was painted, relieving it of that tired look. Enterprising Everett M. Earp, whose family had owned it for years, tacked up a sign and began ushering tourists through the place. Earp showed them the little 6½ by 10½ back room where the president was born. Its walls are covered with newspaper clippings and pictures of the president, of George Washington and Gov. Forrest Smith.

Earp, known to all Lamar as Big Chief from his days in the "law" hereabouts, explained he didn't exactly charge for the tours, but he did give visitors some cards and ask for 50 cents.

A proposal that the state buy the house as a shrine is pending in the House of the General Assembly. It placed a limit of $15,000 as the purchase price. Earp first wanted $25,000, then came down to $20,000 and now would sell it at the proposed price.

Lamar, the county seat of Barton county, started out with 50 acres, a post office, a drug store and a saloon. The little place that sprang up in 1852 might have been named Ward. But its founder, George E. Ward, named it in honor of Maribeu B. Lamar, the first military governor of Texas. Ward and Lamar were college chums from Louisiana.

It was incorporated in 1867 and among the first things to confront the city fathers were complaints about hogs. They were running wild through the streets, knocking people down and messing things up. So an ordinance was passed that the porkers must be kept in pens. But a few years later the ordinance was repealed. The city fathers said the law was unenforceable.

Lamar had troubles a-plenty during the war between the states. In 1863 when Union soldiers had possession of the town, some Confederate sympathizers removed the records from the courthouse and set fire to the building.

One Legal Execution

The court house was rebuilt a few years later and still is in use. In its jail yard the county's only legal execution took place in 1893. On two other occasions mobs used the stately elms for gallows. One mob hanged a man in 1891 for killing a mother and six children. Another lynched a prisoner who in 1919 shot his way out of jail and killed the sheriff and his son.

These events attracted crowds but none like that August day in 1944 when the home town boy, then a senator, was officially notified of his nomination as vice president on the Democratic ticket.

Some 12,000 turned out to hear Senator Truman informed of something he already knew.

Politically, Lamar and Barton county don't team up. Usually Lamar is Democratic and the county Republican. With one exception all the elected city officials are Democrats. A Republican, Orin B. Combs, has been mayor since 1926. In the courthouse the Republicans outnumber the Democrats two to one.

In 97 years, Lamar's original 50 acres have become 400. It has a population of 5,000, two daily newspapers and serves a rich agricultural area.

Next week Lamar and Barton county will observe another big day. October 1 will mark the official opening of the $300,000 Barton County Memorial hospital, the first such institution in the state to be dedicated to World War II veterans. Funds for the 30-bed hospital were raised by a bond issue, private subscriptions and a gift from the state. A large part of the furnishings and equipment have been donated by residents of the county.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

A movement is on foot to stir up earlier interest in Sedalia's Christmas decorating of the business section. This should have genuine and equitable support of all the merchants.

A planned program of this kind is necessary in advance of the holiday season else it ought to be abandoned entirely. Meager decorations and delay in putting them up do not lend enthusiasm to the shoppers.

Christmas decorations should be up soon after Thanksgiving Day and surely not later than December 3, the first Saturday shopping night in that month.

Those members of the Chamber of Commerce committees charged with the responsibility of making this program a success deserve more than a stingy brush-off when they make their calls asking support. The time they sacrifice from their own business is just as valuable to them as the merchant they call on.

The state has taken cognizance of the need to protect rural school children riding busses. A state law to this effect becomes effective October 14. Central Missourians should see to its enforcement.

Commenting on this topic Frank W. Rucker of the Independence Examiner has this to say:

"The law provides that 'the driver of a vehicle upon a highway outside the limits of an incorporated town or city, upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children and whose driver has in the manner prescribed by law given the signal to stop, shall stop the vehicle before reaching such school bus and shall not proceed until such school bus resumes motion, or until signalled by its driver to proceed.'"

"This carries to the rural district provisions that already exist in most cities and towns for the protection of school children.

"The law requires that all vehicles owned by the school district or under contract to transport school children must be marked on front and rear with the words, 'School Bus,' in letters not less than eight inches in height. Each bus must also have on the rear in plain and distinct type the wording: 'State Law: Stop while bus is loading and unloading.' The bus must be equipped with a mechanical or electrical signaling device plainly visible from front and rear indicating intention to stop.

"To help the law fulfill its purpose, the State Highway Patrol suggests that schools organize School Bus Patrols, consisting of older students, to give assistance to the driver in getting children safely across the highway; that they train the children to cross in front of the bus under supervision of the driver and the School Bus Patrol; and that they select school bus stops where sight distance is not limited by curves, hillcrests or other obstructions.

"Many of the school busses have to travel and stop on crowded highways, where provisions such as those given in the new law were necessary for the safety of the children they transport to and from school."

When people started designing city halls there may have been some good reason for putting offices of mayor, city clerk, city collector, city engineer, and council chamber, etc., on the second floor, and the police department on the first floor.

Perhaps in olden times it was necessary for the police, like the firemen, to have a first floor take-off when summons came from scenes of crime or distress.

At any rate it seems an injustice today to require hard-pressed taxpayers to climb the stairs and pay while the law violators are pampered with first floor service.

In these days of radio-equipped police cars, the police take-off from anywhere they may be at the instance of a radio message from headquarters. If the police department and police court were upstairs it might be tough on the drunks; then, too, the climb might sober them up before they got to Judge Berry and fines would be lost. Also speeders brought to a second floor court might become as breathless as the pedestrians they almost or did run over.

Gazing into a crystal ball taxpayers envision the day when the city offices and council chamber will be moved down stairs for their convenience, and the police department moved upstairs.

Anyway the recent improvement to the outside of the ancient building makes it look "mighty perty" in contrast to the disreputable appearance it once had.

There are occasions when one almost concludes that John L. Lewis' reasoning is like luminiferous ether, an imponderable substance. Shakespeare had a word for it:

"His reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff: you shall seek all day ere you find them, and when you have them, they are not worth the search."

Howsoever, if we don't get some fuel in the basement before winter there's going to be something other than the beer that's chilly.

What's so surprising about the Russians perfecting an atomic explosive?

Their determination to uncover the mystery surrounding the A-bomb has been no secret to the nations of the world. Every avenue of research at their command has been probed, including some avenues over here. Sooner or later they were bound to reach their objectives. America has no corner on scientific brains or natural resources. So now we have atomic competition. What will come of this situation is of world concern today.

Further research into atomic energy on the part of Americans and the Russians can bring benefactions to man—or obliterate him entirely.

In the present currency turmoil, the English seemed to have forgotten the admonition of Lord Chesterfield: "take care of the pence and the pound will take care of itself."

Lewis Called Strike Despite fact 99 Per Cent of Operators Contributed to Welfare Fund

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When John L. Lewis sent the call down the line—"No Welfare Payments, No Work"—it was one of the biggest hoaxes he has ever pulled on both his miners and the American public.

For, actually, the welfare payments were being made. Not a single northern operator had suspended payments. They were living up to the spirit of the contract even when no contract existed.

And in the south only three or four operators, including the Island Creek and the Pond Creek companies of West Virginia, had stopped the payments.

In other words, Lewis penalized all the operators who were co-operating—which was 99 per cent of them—on the false pretext that the southern operators were not contributing to the welfare fund.

Real fact, however, is that Lewis wanted an excuse for a general walkout without leaving himself open to a possible court action by personally calling a strike. Thus, he made it appear that a great many operators were withholding the royalty payments on coal tonnage.

Lewis vs. Murray

The real reasons for Lewis' tactics in formulating the strike at this particular time were:

1. He has always wanted to bargain in the fall as the cold season sets in rather than in the spring when demand for coal diminishes.
2. Lewis has spent the welfare portion of his welfare-pension plan so extravagantly that he has to have more money. It has not been the fault of the operators that this fund has been dissipated.
3. Lewis wanted to humiliate and embarrass his old friend and now enemy, CIO Chief Phil Murray.

The president's fact-finding board in the steel dispute has already recommended 10 cents an hour in welfare-pension benefits for steelworkers. This is relatively the same amount as Lewis gets from the coal operators. Therefore if Lewis, by striking now, is able to wangle even two or three cents more royalty out of the coal operators he will be able to preen his feathers at Murray and boast that he is a much better friend of labor.

Meanwhile and to satisfy Lewis' vanity, the entire nation will soon be short of coal despite the fact that all but three or four of the coal operators were continuing to make payments into the miners welfare-pension fund even though they had signed no contracts.

President's Legion Days

When dynamic Clyde Lewis called at the White House the other day, President Truman warmly congratulated him on being the first World War II vet to be elected national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"But," added Truman, with a twinkle in his eye, "you fellows don't have the pep of us World War I boys."

Then he recalled that during an American Legion convention in Kansas City some years back he and a few cronies led a bull into the lobby of the Muehlbach Hotel.

Prodigal Senator Returns

Idaho's repentant Sen. Glen Taylor, who broke with the Democrats to run for vice president on the Henry Wallace ticket, came face to face the other day with the man he revolted against—Harry Truman. This was their first meeting since Truman secretly summoned Taylor to the White House in 1948 and begged him to stay true to the Democratic party.

But the president seemed to hold no grudges. He was standing in front of his desk when Taylor was ushered into the office and gestured as if to welcome back the prodigal son.

After a cordial handshake, the president escorted Taylor over to a globe of the world and gave it a spin to Iran.

"I'm expecting a visit from the Shah of Persia," explained Truman. Then he mused, half to himself: "I'll probably have to send my plane for him."

You'll probably be criticized," warned Taylor. "I'll be criticized whatever I do," retorted the president.

As they sauntered back to the presidential desk, the senator from Idaho congratulated Truman on his "great victory."

"I was happy to see you elected," declared Taylor, earnestly.

The president replied that he had been through the same thing before in Missouri where he wasn't supposed to have a chance. But by going to the people with his case, he always won.

The presidential campaign, remarked Truman, "was the same thing as before only on a bigger scale."

When the subject of more recent politics was brought up, Taylor observed: "I have voted with you on every domestic issue, but I still can't agree with your get-tough foreign policy."

"That is the only way to handle the Russians," declared the president with conviction.

Later, as the reoriented rebel from Idaho departed, the president called after him: "See you again."

Wife Shouldn't Lose Her Head Just Because Her Spouse Has

Their marriage has lasted more than 25 years. Now the wife finds out that her husband is seeing another woman on his regular business trips to another city.

What should the wife do? Above all else, she should use her head.

Her pride may tell her to threaten to leave him and show him that he can't treat her like that and get away with it.

But if she'll listen to her head she will get better advice.

Her head will say: "I've put 25 years into this marriage, why should I pull out of it now and turn over my long-term investment to another woman?"

Her head will say: "Pride is a fine thing and the young may be able to afford it. But what is it going to get me, except the momentary satisfaction of making a fine, dramatic gesture?"

Why Give Up Now?

Her head will ask the question:

"Just what will the years from now on out be like if I give up the security and companionship of marriage and the place in the community it offers me?"

Her head will say: "Surely a marriage that has been mostly good for a quarter of a century can't be entirely ruined, even if right now it seems to be."

There's no time in a marriage when it is as important for a woman to keep her head as when her husband has lost his.

And, the longer the marriage has lasted the greater the woman's investment in it—and, therefore, the most important it is for her to use her head when it is threatened.

The woman who remembers that can figure out a way to handle almost any marriage problem. The danger is in listening to pride rather than to hard, common sense.

Youngsters With Acne Should Overcome Self-Consciousness

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Boys and girls of teen age are particularly liable to acne (pimples). Acne is not a dangerous disease but is more serious than is often realized. It appears for the most part on the face, neck, upper part of the chest and shoulders. The pimple usually starts as a reddish lump which is slightly tender to touch. It often develops into a "white head," which actually consists of a mixture of pus, germs, skin oil, and destroyed tissue cells.

In the milder cases, the pimples are spaced rather widely apart and are near the surface. In more severe cases they are closer together, break out more frequently and burrow deeper into the skin. When a white head forms the top of the pustule finally breaks open, the pus escapes, a crust forms and healing takes place. If the pustule has been large and deep a permanent scar may be left, though this is fortunately the exception.

Diet Plays a Part

Infection alone most certainly does not explain the development of acne. Because acne is most common and usually most severe during the period of adolescence in both boys and girls, it probably has some relation to the changes in the glands and hormones which take place at that time. Diet almost certainly plays a part. Many, if not most, adolescents have a craving for sweets and sweets almost invariably make acne worse.

Family and friends—especially family—ought to be careful not to make remarks about the appearance of the acne. Commenting every day on whether the pimples were better or worse, even if done with the best of intentions, can only exaggerate self-consciousness on the part of a youngster.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS

QUESTION: What causes white patches on the hands?

ANSWER: Probably the condition to which you refer is vitiligo or leukoderma. Many treatments have been tried—most of them without much success. Gradually increasing exposures to sunlight or ultraviolet sometimes helps. Painting the spots with walnut juice or a properly prepared potassium permanganate solution has also been used to make the spots less conspicuous.

A Shot in The Arm, But—

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART
Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Tod Duncan's fiancée, Liz Conover, elopes with another man, Tod turns to his old friend Jenny Polenska for comfort. Jenny has always had a crush on Tod but when Tod proposes she is afraid it is "on the rebound." Tod says it is not and Jenny accepts. What Jenny does not know is that Tod has seen a picture of Liz on her return from her honeymoon. Tod plans to get married quickly, and forget Liz, but he finds that Liz's father is calling his home, trying to get Tod to accept a job in his firm. Tod tells his mother he has "other plans," but he does not tell her that he intends to marry Jenny.

VI

THE three days passed in an exciting whirl for Jenny. The girls at the shop gave her a show; wonderful accessories to go with the cloud pink suit in which she would be married.

Max gave her a hat, a dream, cloud pink to match the suit. She had protested, knowing the exclusive label and the price. But Max insisted.

"Just promise me one thing, Jenny darling," he said. "Don't quit the shop. You're the best model I've got."

"I'm not quitting. You needn't worry about that," Jenny said, tucking the hat into its crisp tissue paper nest in the new hatbox. "Tod's planning to finish college next winter, and he won't have a scholarship this time. I'll have to keep working."

"Fine!" Max gave her a quick hug. "I hope your Tod goes on and on with his schooling, if it means you'll stay that much longer."

"I'm not that good," Jenny protested, laughing. Everything was wonderful and so exciting.

Tod was to be out on his sales territory in the southern part of the state Tuesday and Wednesday but Thursday morning he would come by for her and they would get their license and go to a justice of the peace. They hadn't had time to talk about the details, but Jenny had expected that Tod would bring his mother with him.

She was rather surprised on Thursday morning when Tod turned up alone. He hadn't even told his family.

"But darling," Jenny said, as they drove off. "It's bound to upset your mother this way."

Tod frowned. He did feel guilty for not having told his mother. And the guilt gave rise to irritation as he said, "They'd have raised such a fuss."

"A fuss?"

"You know how they are."

"You mean they wouldn't want you to marry me?"

"It isn't that they don't like you, Jenny," Tod's hands tightened on the wheel.

"Then why should they raise a fuss? Don't they want you to get married?"

"No, it's not that exactly." Real impatience was in his voice now. "It's just—well you know how they felt about my marrying Liz. And Mr. Conover phoned wanting my answer about that job, and I wasn't there, and you know how Ma is; she got all excited, naturally. They all did."

"About what?"

"About the job. Ma got all worked up about Liz again, and got some crazy idea in her head about—" He broke off and glanced at Jenny anxiously. "This is no time to be talking about Liz, or any silly notions Ma has. In a few minutes we'll be married."

"Are you sure, Tod," Jenny faltered.

"Sure I want to marry you?" He grinned at her, blue eyes quizzical. She nodded, a funny lump coming into her throat.

"You silly kid." He brought the car to a stop in front of the faded red brick building with its dingy "Justice of the Peace" sign hanging above the doorway. "I wouldn't have asked you if I hadn't wanted you, would I?"

"No." She went into his arms for a moment, felt the urgency of his mouth on hers, his hand pressed against her throat. Suddenly all her doubts were dissolved.

THE ceremony in the shabby garish parlor had neither dignity nor reality. Jenny always remembered the threadbare red carpet, the framed mottoes on the walls, the bouquet of dusty paper roses on the battered upright piano, the limp soiled lace curtains at the windows.

Tod felt a lack too, and when they were back in the car he said, "I'm sorry it wasn't something better, Jenny. We should have gone to a church and done it right."

"It doesn't matter really, Tod," Jenny whispered. "It isn't the ceremony—but the years that come after it that matter anyway. I hope they'll be good years for us both and last the rest of our lives."

"I hope so too," Tod said slowly. He felt a little shaky, wishing all at once that he had never known anyone but Jenny, that he had never been in love with anyone else. "Well," he said rather grimly, "from now on we'll do it right, at least. Bridal suites and champagne and stuff!"

But whatever Tod meant by "champagne and stuff," there was very little luxury on the honeymoon trip.

They had meant to reach Chicago by evening, but something went wrong with the car, and they were stranded in northern Indiana.

Of their honeymoon Jenny remembered more clearly than anything else the cramped little tourist cottage where they spent that night together; the sleazy blue spread on the chipped white enameled iron bed, the old insurance calendar on the wall, the fly-specked light bulb, the smoky cracked mirror on the dresser; and the smell of frying hamburgers from the all-night truck stop restaurant nearby mingled with the country smells of hay and clover and honeysuckle and dust; the roar of traffic pounding by on the state highway, plus the sound of music from the jukebox in the roadside tavern.

Three Monday shows, heard on Mondays over KMBC, are in the news this week. Arthur Godfrey is back from vacation and will be heard on his morning shows, beginning tomorrow. He'll be heard each morning, Monday through Friday, on KMBC at 8:30 and 10 o'clock, and at 3 p.m. each afternoon. At 7 p.m. Monday evening, the "Professor Quiz" program will return to KMBC, following summer vacation. Quiz is the original radio question and answer man and uses members of the audience in his half-hour program. And, Monday evening at 8 o'clock on KMBC, Bing Crosby and Ann Blyth will have the starring roles in "Emperor Waltz," the Radio Theatre presentation for this week.

Veteran KMBC newscaster John Farmer is on hand each Sunday to present the latest news for Heart of America listeners. John puts in a full day, starting with the 7:15 a.m. roundup. The Sunday mid-morning newscast is heard at 9:45, and Farmer is back again at 12 noon for a 10-minute broadcast. His Sunday evening schedule calls for a 10-minute report at 7 p.m., and again at 9:30 p.m. Final evening roundup is presented at 11 p.m. During this complete Sunday news coverage Farmer has "broken" some mighty important news stories, and he's always up to the minute with latest happenings on the local, regional, national and international levels.

A few other outstanding programs we'd like to mention at random include the Jack Benny Show tonight at 8 on KMBC. Edgar Bergen, Red Skelton and Amos 'n' Andy will drop in to exchange banter with Benny, and we won't wager on the outcome. Peggy Lee and Abe Burrows will be Bing Crosby's guests at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday night on KMBC. The Playhouse, at 9 p.m. Thursday evening on KMBC, will present "August Heat," with Fred MacMurray in the starring role. The "Vaughn Monroe Show" will return to KMBC at 6:30 this Saturday evening, following a summer vacation.

And, don't forget to tune in KMBC at 1:45 next Saturday afternoon to hear Sam Molen with play-by-play description of the Iowa State-Kansas football game. Jim Burke will assist Molen with the color of this Big 7 game.

Under a law passed at this session of Congress, the Commodities Credit Corporation is authorized to provide extra bins for the 1949 crop and subsequent output. But they won't be built for several weeks. So farmers who want to begin harvesting by Oct. 1 will either have to find storage space on their farms or move the corn directly to market. Heavy marketings already have pushed prices well below support levels.
The storage puzzle has been growing tougher every year as farmers turned more and more to improved varieties of high-yield hybrid seed, greater use of fertilizer and new scientific methods of cultivation. Construction of cribs and bins to hold the vastly increased yield simply hasn't kept up.
In Iowa, for example, the storage space now available was designed to handle an annual output of some 500,000,000 bushels—back in the pre hybrid days. The outlook for this year is 640,000,000 bushels, and there's still a carry-over of 2,000,000 bushels from 1948. Iowa is the nation's top producer.
C. H. Van Vlack, Iowa State College agriculture engineer, is urging farmers to store corn in shelled rather than ear form. He says it's cheaper, that spoilage is less likely to occur and that, of course, shelled corn takes up only half as much space as ear corn. He adds:
"Especially is it advisable to shell out old corn now under government seal or purchase agreement, and re-seal it in a tight bin."
Keeping corn in cribs for more than a year is hard on cribs. The crop dries out during the summer and settles as it dries. During later wet weather, it takes on moisture and expands, forcing out the crib walls. Long-time storage of corn also allows rat populations to build up.
Unless present forecasts go awry, the United States will have a corn surplus in excess of 1,000,000,000 bushels by 1950. The Department of Agriculture's headache is not only finding space to put this carry-over; it has to cushion the declining prices that result from heavy marketings.
The storage problem plus the big sums paid out by government to assure farmers the support price for their product may lead Secretary of Agriculture Brannan to impose still quota controls on 1950 output. Almost certainly this would be an unpopular decision, but the government may conclude it has no sound alternative.
Meantime, all this talk of surpluses and lower prices makes pleasant music for consumers. Eventually it will be translated into more and better meat at cheaper prices.

For the Enrichment of Life

LONGFELLOW WAS RIGHT when he penned the words—"Time is fleeting."

If you want a Cadillac, and feel that you are entitled to one, you ought to make arrangements at once to have one delivered into your possession.

Each day you forego it, you will lose a goodly measure of happiness and satisfaction—for a Cadillac is a joy to possess, and a joy to utilize. Many say that it adds to the zest of their whole day's activities.

Certain it is that a Cadillac brings with it the utmost in performance, in comfort, and in safety—and that it contributes immeasurably to its owner's peace of mind. Few, indeed, can be happy without a Cadillac—once they have learned how greatly it enriches their lives.

Effort To Secure Jobs For Them be Week Oct. 2-8

Sedalia's campaign to help physically handicapped persons find jobs will be carried on from October 2 to 8, inclusive, Virgil J. Brown, Manager of the Sedalia Office of the Missouri Division of Employment Service announced today.

The seven-day drive will be in national observance of the fifth anniversary of National Employment Handicapped Week. Brown said, "This is in response to congressional action calling for universal support of a movement to place disabled individuals in gainful employment. Men and women from virtually all of the city's civic, patriotic and veterans' organizations will assist in the city-wide drive, Brown said.

Sedalia employers will be asked to survey their present job requirements in an effort to find employment for handicapped persons, Brown added. Persons with physical disabilities and not now employed, will be urged to register with the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Service, he said, so their qualifications for jobs can be evaluated. Manager Brown said he believed there is a job for every handicapped worker in Sedalia if employers would consider abilities and not the disabilities of people we are trying to help.

"This is not a charity drive," Brown continued. "We are not seeking funds. We are looking for jobs."

"When an employer calls the Missouri Employment Service for a handicapped worker, he can be sure that any applicant sent to him will be just as well qualified for the job as the unimpaired worker."

"The people we are striving to help should be judged by their abilities, not their disabilities."

With suitable jobs, physically handicapped individuals are assets to their employers, their community, and the nation, Brown added. He said it had been established that a handicapped person who is prepared by vocational rehabilitation to get and keep a job pays an estimated $10.00 in federal income taxes for every dollar Uncle Sam spends on his rehabilitation, not to estimate money paid in city, county, state and school taxes.

Vice-President Visited Mrs. Carleton Hadley

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Vice President Barkley, here for another visit with Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, passed up a cocktail party at the city hall late today and went on to a birthday party for Mrs. Hadley.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst, primed to give Barkley the key to the city at city hall, took the key to the party.

The latter gathering, a private occasion for about 60 guests, was in honor of Mrs. Hadley's 38th birthday, which was Friday, the night the vice president arrived by commercial plane.

Reporters and photographers were barred. "I don't want a lot of poah-bah about it," Mrs. Hadley explained.

USC Triumphs Over Navy 42-20

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Southern California's Trojans, looking mid-season sharp, opened their 1949 football with a 42 to 20 triumph over Navy today.

Jay Roundy, fleet Trojan halfback, set the tone of the inter-sectional clash five minutes after it began when he took a Navy punt and returned it 67 yards for the first parade of touchdowns.

Before the contest ended for the edification of 62,787 fans, USC, a team many think may wind up in the Rose Bowl, had hit the scoreboard for six touchdowns and as many extra points.

UCLA Takes Advantage Of Leaky Iowa Defense

IOWA CITY, Ia., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The air-minded Bruins from the University of California at Los Angeles punctured a leaky Iowa defense today for a 41-25 inter-sectional football victory.

UCLA winning its second straight game for its new coach, Henry (Red) Sanders, broke the contest wide open with three touchdowns in the third period after recovering Iowa fumbles.

The Bruins, who came out of the west by plane to be the first Pacific Coast Conference team to appear in Iowa stadium, did most of their traveling against Iowa in the air.

Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice Engineers a 26-6 Victory

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Breaking loose for three last period touchdowns, North Carolina whipped North Carolina State, 26-6, today to turn a bruising football game into a runaway.

All-America tailback Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice engineered the Southern Conference victory with the help of a sophomore-studded lineup.

Two Golfers to Meet In Amateur Finals

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., and Walter Cisco of Louisville, Ky., today earned the right to meet in a 36-hole match for the Western Golf Association's 47th amateur championship.

They'll settle it in morning and afternoon rounds over the baffleing 6,505-yard Vallerie Country Club course tomorrow.

Stranahan, who won the meet in 1948, captured his semi-final match with James Franks, former Illinois amateur champion from Taylorville, 5 and 4.

Cisco, a young Louisville lawyer, ousted his good buddy Hord W. Hardin of St. Louis, 2 and 1. Stranahan advanced with comparative ease to his third Western amateur finals in as many tries.

Hardin, tournament chairman and also a lawyer, who had urged Cisco to participate in the meet, made a great battle of it before bowing out on the 35th hole.

Northwestern Off To A Driving Start

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Northwestern got off to a driving start in the Big Ten gridiron championship race today by bowling over Purdue, 20 to 6.

The 1949 Rose Bowl winners, held in check during the closely played first half, shifted into high gear in the third period. In that session, a crowd of 48,000 saw Northwestern strike for two touchdowns in a total of four plays. Each team scored once in the second period at the end of long drives.

Purdue showed strength, but was handicapped by the injuries of Harry Schulborski, leading ground gainer of the Western Conference for the past two years. He was kept on the sidelines most of the game by a leg injury.

Irish After Another Unbeaten Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 24.—(AP)—It was the same old juggernaut Notre Dame, plus some frisky new hands, as the Fighting Irish touched off a bid for a fourth straight unbeaten season with a 49-16 clouting of Indiana's out-rammed Hoosiers today.

From a modest 16-6 halftime advantage, the Irish rolled up 20 points in a devastating third period and 13 more in the final quarter for their 29th straight game without defeat.

Postpone Lamott-Cerdan Middleweight Title Bout

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Jake Lamott's middleweight title defense against Marcel Cerdan of France was postponed indefinitely today with a belated announcement that the 160-pound champion had injured his right shoulder while training on Thursday.

The two were to have met next Wednesday night at the Polo Grounds in a battle which had attracted great advance interest. Lamotta won the crown from the Frenchman in Detroit last spring when Cerdan suffered a shoulder injury in an early round.

Missouri Valley AAA Meeting Next Sunday

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The annual convention of the Missouri Valley Association of the amateur Athletic Union will be held here next Sunday.

Some 40 amateur sports organizations in Kansas and Missouri are expected to be represented at the 20th annual session. Bids for 1950 district and national A.A.U. championship events will be submitted by clubs sponsoring such events as basketball, track, swimming, wrestling, boxing and handball. Nominations for the Sullivan award for the outstanding athlete of 1949 also will be filed.

Michigan Opens With a Victory

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Michigan, the nation's mythical football champion, kept alive a three-season victory string here today by defeating a stubborn Michigan State squad, 7-3.

But it was the closest squeak since the string was started midway during the 1946 season.

The University of Michigan's newly-expanded, 96,239-seat stadium was crammed as Michigan fought off its long-time state rival right down to the final whistle.

Michigan State college thus became Michigan's 24th consecutive victim. But the newly-admitted members of the Western Conference lost no prestige in making a nip-and-tuck fight of it all the way.

The whole story was told in the first 18 minutes of play. Michigan State took a 3-0 lead on a field goal booted by George Smith, senior quarterback from Wayne, Mich. Michigan retaliated with an 11-yard touchdown pass, from its second-string signal-caller, Bill Putich, to veteran end Irv Wisniewski.

The victory gave Michigan a record of 33 wins, six losses, and three ties in the series with Michigan State that began in 1898.

Iowa State New 'V' Formation Clicks

CAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Iowa State and its new "V" formation, guided by passer Bill Weeks, unharmed three long scoring drives to hold favored Illinois to a 20-20 stalemate in the Illinois' football opener today.

After Iowa State, a 28 point underdog, gained a 7-0 halftime lead, Illinois popped to life with a pair of touchdowns in the first five minutes of the third period to the delight of 31,106 home fans. The visiting Cyclones then rolled 75 yards for a payoff and trailed only 14-13 at the end of the third after Joe Brubaker's conversion attempt was wide.

Illinois again flared for a 20-13 lead at the outset of the final quarter after Dick Ravolli's 43-yard runback of a kickoff ignited a 46-yard scoring push in seven plays.

But Iowa State bounced back on an 80-yard surge featuring Week's 36 and 15 yard tosses to Jim Doran. Weeks eventually rammed over from one foot and Brubaker's perfect placement deadlocked the score 20-20.

Colorado Serves Notice on Big 7

BOULDER, Colo., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The University of Colorado served notice on the Big Seven football fraternity today by kicking highly favored Kansas 13-12 before a record crowd of 22,500.

The home club so completely dominated the opening periods of the game that Kansas was 13 points behind and had played 22 minutes before it was able to move the ball past mid-field.

Rough running by Forrest Griffith and Bud French, plus dead-shot passing by Jerry Bogue, put the Kansas in charge for most of the second half, but their closing bid for victory was killed by a brilliant pass interception by Malcolm Miller on the Colorado 22 when the game had but two minutes to run.

Score by periods:
Kansas 0 6 0 6—13
Colorado 6 7 0 0—13
Kansas scoring: Touchdown—French, Linville.
Colorado scoring: Touchdowns—Hagin, Mosher. Point after touchdown—Flores.

Family Among Displaced To Pettis County For Their Home

The four members of the Czerwony family, who have been living on the W. L. Hampson farm, route 1, for a little over a month are gradually becoming accustomed to their new home and country.

M. J. Ressel, who has been acting as interpreter for the Hampsons, as well as a social contact for the Czerwons, has been very cooperative in relating a few of the most interesting things he has learned from talking to the members of the family. The family consists of: Jan, the father, his wife Anna, their 20-year-old son Wladyslaw, and their daughter, Anniela, who is 13. The elders are in their late forties.

Liberated in 1945

Ressel said the family was living in Drochobycz, Poland, at the outbreak of the war and in 1943 were taken into Germany to be charged of a German farmer along with five other families. He said they were living and working as farm laborers when the American forces liberated them in 1945. From the time of their liberation until they sailed from Bremmerhaven, Germany, on August 4th they worked at odd jobs and were slowly coming back to peace time living when they were placed with a family here in this country. According to Ressel they were originally assigned to a family in Montana and had their placement orders changed twice before they were finally assigned to the Sedalia area.

Astonished at Unused Land

Wladyslaw, according to Ressel, has the equivalent of three years of college education and has an intense love for music. He (Wladyslaw) once asked Ressel how much a piano-accordion would cost him. When Ressel told him about how the prices were on accordions, Wladyslaw was rather surprised, but said he was going to save his money and buy one as soon as he could. Ressel said the boy told him after seeing the lights in Sedalia's business district there are ten times as many lights here as there are in any towns this size in the old country. The entire family is amazed at all the unused land and can't understand why so much land is lying uncultivated, and apparently going to waste.

Ressel described the Czerwons as very ambitious and interested in buying a home of their own as soon as possible. The Czerwons are Catholic and have been attending the Sacred Heart church every Sunday, accompanied by Mr. Ressel.

When the Czerwons came to Sedalia on August 16th another family of displaced persons were on the train and got off in Sedalia at the same time, but efforts to learn of the home they went to have been futile.

With Boul Family

Iwanna Skop, 44, now living with the Claude L. Boul family at 620 West Third street, is another native of Poland (Rzesow) who has come to this community in the past month. Mrs. Skop, widow of Andrew Skop (who died 18 years ago) has two children, a son 18 and a daughter 23, who along with her mother, were taken into Russia in 1945. She says that she has not heard from her children, directly, for over three years, but she does correspond with a brother in Poland and he has recently had correspondence with them and reports that they are living.

Mrs. Skopp was in Nazi controlled Austria as a laborer from 1942 until 1945. She escaped, however, when the Russians took over and made her way into Germany, where she worked for a German farmer until 1947. Since that time she has been in the Lextenfeld D. P. camp in Salzburg, Austria.

She left Bremmerhaven, Germany, on August 23, aboard the S. S. Ge. Howze, arrived in New Orleans on Labor Day, September 5th, and finally reached Sedalia via Kansas City on September 8th.

Locate in Midwest

Over 800 other displaced persons who made this trip were located in the Mid-west, as far east as Columbia and Jefferson City and as far west as Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Skop speaks four languages, Polish, Russian, Ukrainian and German. She says she likes her new home and has no desire to return to the old country. Her philosophy of life is . . . "the people who keep busy are the happiest." According to Boul she is very anxious to learn the English language and says the people here are wonderful.

The group sent to the Kansas City area were assisted in their placements by the ar Relief Service of the National Catholic Conference, Resettlement Division. Rt. Rev. Monsignor James N. V.

Order To Sell Camp Crowder

KANSAS CITL, Sept. 24—(AP)—An order clearing the way for sale of 29,394 acres of the former Camp Crowder military reservation near Neosho, Mo., was issued here.

Quirk J. Bernard, regional director of the general services administration—war assets—ruled the land was useful chiefly for agricultural purposes. He notified the district office of the farm credit administration in St.

Louis that the property will be turned over to FCA for disposal. War assets administration placed a freeze order on the land two years ago until a decision was reached on a proposal to make the acreage a game refuge.

At conservation commission hearings on the proposal its opponents argued that the land was more useful for farming.

Bernard's action lifted the freeze order. He said the conservation commission's application to use the land was denied. The government paid $814,998 for the property. Many of the farmhouses and other buildings are still standing on the 1,400 tracts, Bernard said.

He said it is not known yet when the land will be offered for sale.

He took two men's suits and two dresses. But the garments have no backs. They were made for use by undertakers in clothing bodies.

The lease is contingent upon the board of public utilities of Kansas City, Kan., acquiring the right to lease the property from the government.

The board approved a lease of the field for a five-year period with two five-year renewal options.

Warren Lee Pierson, Trans

Shirley Has Extra Homework Answering Mountain of Mail

By Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

SOMERSET, Mass. — (NEA) — like every junior in Somerset high, Shirley May France has a lot of homework to do each night. But, unlike the others, she has a little extra.

With the help of her mother and father, she is painstakingly plodding her way through a small mountain of mail, which, despite her efforts, keeps growing every day as new letters come in. There are letters from every state in the union and many foreign countries, some written in Spanish or French.

Most of them are simply fan letters, like that from an ex-serviceman in Compton, Calif., who wrote: "I was dumped into that stinking pond one morning in June in 1944, Babe. I only had a hundred yards to go but it was a long, cold, miserable hundred yards, and I didn't think I'd make it. They tell me you stuck it out for 10 and a half hours! My hat is off to you, Kiddo, you are a true champion."

There is a letter from a 10-year-old Chicago girl who reminds Shirley that "you are very young and have lots of time to swim it." And a man, signing himself "A Grand Dad of 73" who says, "You have set an example for the youth of America to try for the hard things in life."

The fan letters are the easiest to answer; a simple note of thanks does the trick. But others are not so easily acknowledged. What should she write, for example, to the Boston man, who pours out his heart like this:

"I am a rabid fan of yours. Further, I'm in love with you, Shirley May. You are the most beautiful, shapely, wonderful woman in the world. I adore you. I want to marry you. Please answer."

That is a poser, and so is the one from a 13-year-old girl in Pequot Lakes, Minn., who has a problem of the heart for Shirley.

"I have a boy friend," writes the girl, "who is a wonderful swimmer, but I get left behind because I can't swim as far as the rest of the kids. Please write and tell me what you can about breathing and distance swimming. Please help me—I know you are busy but at night maybe you can write."

Another kind of problem is that of a young married woman in Davenport, Nebr., who lost 30 pounds after the birth of her son. Reading how Shirley put on weight while training, she asks: "Please let me know (if it is possible) how you could gain and have such an attractive body. I am 28 years old and don't want to look 60 when I'm 30."

An ex-GI from Marissa, Ill., is one of those asking for a picture. "Now that I am out of the Army," he writes, "I am going to go on to college for more education. I would like very much to have a picture of you to remind me that it takes lots of guts to stick with something even though the odds are against you. You are a perfect example of that."

To Shirley, one of the nicest features of the voluminous mail is the large number of fan letters from England. Although there was some criticism of her in English newspapers, all of the mail she has received from there lauds her attempt and warmly invites her back next year.

Writing from the charity ward of a London hospital, a young man expresses it this way: "The people of England don't think you a failure. I think I can safely say that the majority of English people think you are very plucky."

And from Wembley in Middlesex came these words from a young girl: "I am not ashamed to admit I was near to tears when I read how you were forced to leave the water. I know I am expressing the wish of millions of British families when I say—may we see you again next year in another attempt and may it prove successful."

Gradually, Shirley hopes to answer them all. It's a long grind, but, as she says, "It's not quite as tough as swimming the Channel!"

Youthful Cyclist Trip Home Stopped

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 24—(P)—Police Friday interrupted the homeward bicycle trip of nine-year-old John Bennett of Tulsa, Okla.

Young Bennett, student at Castle Heights Military Academy at Lebanon, Tenn., slipped away from school at 4 a. m. today, clad only in his pajamas and a pair of trousers.

He pedaled the 30 miles to Nashville and tried to register at a hotel. The clerk called Chief of Detectives Ed Burgess and the fourth-grade student was soon on his way back to school.

John said he was heading for Tulsa, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bennett, live.

Doubts Husband Would Sell Ingrid

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24—(P)—Dr. Peter Lindstrom's official spokesman on matters involving his wife, Ingrid Bergman, quit Friday. But before he did, he criticized Miss Bergman's attorneys and said: "I don't think he would ever consider 'selling' his wife."

John Vernon, who for years has been business representative of both Lindstrom and Miss Bergman, referred to newspaper reports that her attorneys "had stated they were offering the doctor a fortune if he would give her a divorce."

"Aside from their home," said Vernon, "their joint assets are very nominal."

"I know the doctor as a very reasonable man, but it seems to me that this method of offering him a 'fortune' in exchange for his wife places him in a position of refusing a divorce on this point alone."

"He has not seen Mr. (Monroe) McDonald or Mr. (Greg) Bautzer (Miss Bergman's lawyers) and I doubt if he has any intention of negotiating with them if they persist in releasing their 'terms' to the press before consulting with him."

Vernon's statement reviewed his long association with the actress and her husband.

S-H Girls Win But Boys Tie Smithton

The Sacred Heart girls softball team rolled up a tilted score of 13 to 0 over the Smithton club in an afternoon of softball at Liberty park Friday.

The boys from both high schools tangled in a tightly played ball game that ended with a wrapped up score of 6 to 6. Homan hurler for Smithton, connected for a homer in the fourth with two on to make the final score.

Both games were five inning affairs with the following pitchers on the mound.

In the boys game, that was the second event of the afternoon, Sedalia used Paxton against Homan. In the girls game the Smithton aggregation split their moundman duties between Oerke and Green (3) who attempted to par with Eckhoff of Sacred Heart.

The two schools will clash in contests Friday at Smithton.

Miss Beverly Haggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Haggard of rural route 3, Sedalia, became the bride of Mr. John Stephen Harvey, Sr., of 508 East Walnut street, Sedalia, Sunday afternoon, September 18, at three o'clock in a wedding ceremony in the sanctuary of the First Christian church.

The marriage vows were exchanged before a setting of palms, baskets of white chrysanthemums, aster and gladioli, and lighted tapers in candelabra. Forming a background for the bridal setting were baskets of fall garden flowers. Family pews in the sanctuary were tied with white satin streamers, and white satin bows were attached to the pews down the aisle.

The Rev. David M. Bryan, minister of the church, read the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. H. O. Foraker, church organist, wearing a formal gown of fuchsia sheer crepe with a corsage of pink carnations, played the following nuptial music: "I Love Thee," by Greig; "Love Everlasting," by Friml; "Oh Promise Me," by Dr. Koren; "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," by Herbert; "All For You," by Bertrand Brown, and "O Perfect Love," by Burleigh.

Miss Ella Dee Runge, accompanied by Mrs. Foraker, sang "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "Because" by D'Hardelt. She wore a formal gown of rose taffeta and her corsage was of white carnations.

The candles were lighted by Miss Joan Summers and Miss Peggy Thomas. They were dressed in identical formal gowns of peach taffeta, fashioned with tight fitting bodices, cap sleeves and flowing skirts. Their corsages were of green carnations. White candles were carried by each and were tied with white asters and white satin ribbon. During the lighting of the candles, Mrs. Foraker played on the organ chimes, "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride was preceded into the sanctuary by her bridesmaids Misses Alma Hall, Catherine Brown, Carolee Johnson and Betty Brown. The gowns of the bridesmaids were identical except as to color, and were fashioned with a low rounded neckline which came to a point in the front and back, and was finished by a double rolled collar. The bodices were close fitting and the skirts were long, full and sweeping. Miss Hall and Miss Catherine Brown wore gowns of green taffeta and carried heart shape colonial bouquets made of green carnations, orchid gladioli and yellow asters, which were tied with orchid satin ribbon. Miss Johnson and Miss Betty Brown wore gowns of orchid taffeta and carried identical bouquets of flowers, tied with green satin ribbon. Each bridesmaid wore a head band of braided green, orchid and yellow taffeta finished with rosettes the same color of the gown worn.

The maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Haggard, wore a gown of yellow taffeta, fashioned similarly to that worn by the bridesmaids. She carried a heart shape colonial bouquet tied with yellow satin streamers. On her head, she wore a band of braided yellow, orchid and green taffeta ribbon, with yellow rosettes at either side.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a rounded neckline, with close fitting bodice and long sleeves, tapered at the wrist. The full skirt of the gown was finished at the bottom by a wide ruffle which extended up the back to the waist line. A separate panel extended into a three foot train, which was also finished by the pleated ruffle. The veil which she wore was made of bridal net, and held in place by a braided satin band covered with pearl beads. The veil was the same worn by her sister, Mrs. Douglas Maus, at her marriage on last May 1st, in the same sanctuary. The bride's only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, tied with white satin streamers, in the center of which was a white orchid.

Miss Haggard and her father proceeded to the altar to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Foraker, where they were met by Mr. Harvey, the bridegroom, and his brother, Mr. Eugene Harvey, who served as best man, and Mr. Jesse Tuggle, Mr. Joseph Newland, Mr. Elbert Van Dyke and Mr. Vernon Harvey, who served as ushers.

"Ave-Maria" by Bach-Gounod, was played by Mrs. Foraker during the ceremony, and Miss Runge sang "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, as the couple knelt at the altar for the benediction. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played for the recession from the altar.

The bride's mother was attired in a dress of brown crepe with brown accessories, and her corsage was of brown asters. The bridegroom's mother wore a grey dress trimmed with silver buttons, with black accessories, and her corsage was of pink gladioli.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with the following assisting: Misses Ann Renfrow, Juanita Means, Virginia Williams, Catherine Lambirth, Margaret Ann Wade and Patty Edwards. The table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with tall white tapers. In the center was a large, three-tier wedding cake, decorated with white icing and pink roses. On the top of the cake was a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

Some of the prettiest dresses of the season are now arriving. The sun-washed, but cool days make them very important. A two-piece fashioned in an ever-so-soft corduroy with a faint plain in blue and red is different—another all-wool beige background with a tweedy look is smart for a one-piece dress. Pick up one of the minor colors for your accessories. The sleeves are long enough to go without a wrap, yet long enough to show off your bracelets.

Just a note too, about hosiery—the shades are wonderful for fall. A new COPPER SHADE for the browns, and greens—SHADOW, which is a new taupe that compliments your greys, blacks and wine. HIGH TEA to wear with black. Of course, there are other shades of Cocoa Beige, Grey Eve and Taupeint, but the first three I mentioned are the newest and smartest colors. They aren't too dark and not too light, but really wearable. Remember too, never wear new hose before they are laundered.
